DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) do not apply to the examination of this application as the application being examined was not (1) filed on or after November 29, 2000, or (2) voluntarily published under 35 U.S.C. 122(b). Therefore, this application is examined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

2. Claims 1-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Widegren et al. (6,374,112).

As per claims 1 and 13-14, Widegren et al. disclosed a method for performing data communication between a mobile station MS (see fig. 1/no. 30) and a network (fig. 1) which have media access control MAC sublayers (fig. 7), respectively, a method for branching data in a mobile communication terminal, comprising the steps of allowing each of said MAC sublayers of said MS and network to attach logical channel type based on traffic characteristics info. and a radio bearers status to a MAC header contained in data to be sent in a data sending mode, to branch said data to be sent to transport channels corresponding to the attached logical channels, to determine logical channels corresponding logical types of a MAC header contained in received data in a data receiving mode to branch said received data to said determined logical channels (fig. 4-6, fig. 9, col. 2/ln. 49-col. 4/ln. 49, col. 9/ln. 5-col. 13/ln. 42, col. 15/ln. 39-col. 16/ln. 41).

As per claims 2 and 15, Widegren et al. disclosed said MAC sublayers to perform a channel mapping operation in a one-to-one, many-to-one, or one-to-many manner to branch said data to be sent or said received data (see col. 9/ln. 50-63).

As per claims 3-4 and 16-17, Widegren et al. disclosed said traffic characteristic info includes traffic characteristic identifiers transferred from a radio source control layer and other upper layer. Such traffic characteristic identifiers represent any one of random access data, synch. data, system data, paging info/forward access grant info, short message service data, no radio bearer short packet data, signaling data, radio bearer short/long packet data, multicast signaling data, or multicast data and speech (see col. 7/ln. 54-col. 8/ln. 13, col. 10/ln. 15-21, col. 10/ln. 64-col. 12/ln. 11).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 5-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Widegren et al. (6,374,112).

As per claims 5-12, Widegren et al. disclose such specific way of channels mapping operation (see fig. 7-9, col. 9/ln. 50-63, col. 13/ln. 43-col. 16/ln. 29) but do not explicitly disclosed other adapted way of channel mapping operations as cited in claims 5-12. However, it is obvious that any other way of channel mapping operations can be used as long as it provide channels mapping operations and multiplexing/demultiplexing between logical and transport channels according to traffic characteristics to branch data. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to utilize such channel mapping operations, as cited in claims 5-12, to the channels mapping operations of Widegren et al. in order to flexibility providing a wide variety of mobile communications services and efficiently allocating resources to support those services.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Chuah et al. (6,400,695), Hamalainen et al. (5,640,395), and Hamalainen et al. (5,729,541) disclose transmitting packet data in a radiotelephone communications system.
